General Confessions of the Anachronistic
Or
Adventures of Ideas

By: Hong Liew

"In the study of ideas, it is necessary to remember that in science, as in hand-made industry based on cardiovascular feeling, as it were, a visit, clothing the perplexities of fact. In science, as in craft at all times, is based on sheer supposition, as to the made in which human intelligence functions. But reasoning goes on stress for premises and fast as guesses for deductions."

Written over 2003-2004, the book is a reflection on perspectives, and how various perspectives all around the world at all times are leaving their impressions into the epistemological and metaphysical soup of Existence. The narrative begins in a recent past and culminates in the not too distant future (futuristic setting also helps to emphasize that situations and characters are fictional representations of non-fictional sentiment). Quotes and alternate titles are all meant as homage to previous (master)works. The reader should change time periods (there is a blank space that leads many chapters) as inventions and innovations are discovered.
